

*It requires courage to be human,
for it requires that we think for ourselves, call things for what they are and do what needs to be done.*

