

A winter landscape with snow-covered ground and trees against a blue sky. The text is overlaid on the right side of the image.

Respect that each human life, including your own, is granted from the same power and authority, which we call God, has an equal right to be here and is subject to the same Creational rules, which require us to respect the natural order of things that we might ourselves progress.