

*It is never wise to dismiss the beliefs of wise people;
neither is it wise to accept the beliefs of ignorant people;
wisdom is being able to tell the difference.*

I wonder how many 'enlightened' Europeans dismissed the native people as ignorant savages, and then went on to die of thirst in the desert.

